The intellectual process through which an individual masters and ultimately appropriates - the concepts and knowledge of history and critically applies such concepts and knowledge in the resolution of contemporary and historical issues is extremely demanding and complex. What is short about Canadian history, of course, is its existence in the mould of a European state; the land and people have been here for thousands of years.

It's a story of betrayal, failure, naïveté, indifference, hatred, genocide. I think that the s is of vital importance in that this trend emerged during that period. There are not very many foreign scholars who teach in Chinese universities. Other jurisdictions and scholars, notably in Australia, France, and Germany, have also developed history programs with related structures, concepts, and procedural ideas.

The result is that, to this day, there is no clear consensus on its exact definition. At such high offices this work does not aspire: It wants only to show what actually happened [wie es eigentlich gewesen].
